These sections are general and apply to CIA.

Section 5

pp. 29-38

draft

Establishes a two year "Privacy Protection Study Commission" composed of nine members--3 appointed by President; 3 by President of Senate; and 3 by Speaker; to be chosen from among members of public at large experts in civil rights, law, etc.

The Commission is to study data banks and data processing programs and information systems of Government and make recommendations to the President and Congress. It is also to determine what laws or other authority govern these systems and the extent that they are consistent with right of privacy and due process of law. Under Section (b) (3) (pg. 33 OMB draft) the Commission is to make a thorough study of the criteria of programs which govern the collection, dissemination and use of personal information.

The Commission may inspect such records as it deems necessary; may hold hearings and has subpoena powers with redress to the courts.

NOTE: We were exempt from the Privacy Board in S. 3418, the Senate bill; however, this was more regulatory. This proposal is a study commission which we would be hard pressed to be totally exempt from. They should have enough to concentrate on in the public service sector--i.e., HEW, IRS, etc. but we probably would be subject to their review to some extent. We could try for legislative history to make clear that the Director's responsibilities are not impaired.

Section 6

pg. 27 OMB

draft

Agencies must give prior notice to OMB and Congress if they intend to change any record systems which affect personal rights.

Section 7

OMB is to provide guidelines.

enactment.

Section 9

Authorizes appropriation of $1,500,000 for fiscal years 1975 through 1977 with $750,000 limitation for any one year.

For Inclusion in Conference Committee Report

The Congress recognized the sensitivity of records maintained by the Central Intelligence Agency and exempted CIA from most of the provisions of the Act. The Congress makes clear that any review of CIA record systems which may be conducted by the Study Commission shall not impair the responsibility of the Director of Central Intelligence to protect intelligence sources and methods pursuant to the National Security Act of 1947.
